Cyffyng Cyffyng Bridge is a romantic and substantial structure, which spans the waters of the Llugwy a short distance east of Capel Curig, and by means of which the old road from Dolwyddelan and Bettws-y-Coed crosses the stream that here forms a charming series of cataracts. This bridge is the starting-point for one of the routes up Moel Siabod, a precipitous mountain, 2,800 feet high, at the foot of which Capel Curig is situated.
